SAUTER Race India is a founding member of the Indian Green Building Council

The Indian Green Building Council (IGBC) promotes the concept of 'green building' in India. It is part of the Green Business Centre (GBC) within the Confederation of Indian Industry (CII), an association that forms the main interface between the government and industry in India. It is a platform that the government recognises and whose recommendations it takes into account when formulating various policies. The council's main areas of concern are energy efficiency, 'green' buildings, renewable energy, water, environment, recycling and climate change.

'Green building' is the practice of increasing the efficiency with which buildings use resources (energy, water, materials), whilst reducing their impact on both the environment and human health through better siting, design, construction, operation, maintenance and removal, i.e. over the complete life cycle of the building.

Many countries worldwide have developed their own organisations and relevant standards for the implementation of their rating systems. The IGBC lists 293 members and 224 registered buildings. As a founding member, SAUTER Race India confirms SAUTER's commitment to energy efficiency.
